BY GRANSTON & NORMAN, 127 THAMES STREET.

THURSDAY MORN'G JULY 01, 1851. 113-The Ocean House hasnever beer opened under such favorable quepicie as this year. Every part of the establishment has been put in complete order, and many excellent improvements ninde. Mr. Weaver is assisted by Mr. Thomas, formerly of the Aster House, New York, who is one of the most experienced and popular men in his busidees in the country. His gentlemanly demeanor, promptness and decision of character eminently qualify him to make the Ocean more popular than it han ever been. Mr. Weaver is also ase sted by his son.

The Ocean is fortunate in being supplied with excellent cooks, and a head waiter, McBride, who has no superior in his line. The Steward, Darling is an excellent enterer, and provides most liberally from the choicest which the market affords. The old barber is at his post again, to shave and dress bair in the most fashionable style, and in the must comfortable manner. Lust, though not least, Downing is in the Bar-room, where he is perfectly at home. This is his first season at the Ocean; he takes the place of Capt. Lucas, who has presided over this department for several years past, with great satisfaction to all the sick and afflicted who required his services. Downing bids fair to be equally popular as a dispenser of medicines, and we have no doubt he will make a host of friends during the season, among those whom he will prescribe for. He was formerly at Rathbun's Hotel.

The waiters at the Ocean are prompt and energetic, and all orders at the fable are executed with wonderful alacrity. Indeed, we have never seen the tables or the attendance at them sur passed, at any hotel in the country.-Under such flattering arrangements and prospects, we know that the Ocean will soon be crowded, and that every one will not only be satisfied, but highly pleased, with the catablishment and all that appurtains to it.

HT The factionable season commenced in good carnest at the Ocean House Tuesday quenies - Was the fire orites, the Germanians, tuned their instruments and counted their delicious melody again in the Salson. There was a large number present, and several glided about, in the Polka, with much apparent delight. In one week from this time, everything will be in motion, and the town will be crowded with the gay, the beautiful and the accomplished. The season will be a brilliant one, and Newport will be more popular than

The bathing at the Beach has already commenced, and the surf presents an enlivening scene every morning.

ICF At the Commoncement exercises at Brown University, Providence, yesterday, the Philosophical Oration was delivered by Mr. Alfred Lawton, son of Gov. Lawton, of this town.

IG The Fire-works in Providence have again been postponed on account of the unfavorable weather. The display will take place the first fair night.

Noticing in a Noston paper that Francis T. Russell intends to make a visit to Newport, we cannot forhear adding our opinion as to his Elecutionary powers. Mr. R. the North, for some years, for the interest he has taken in Oratory and Rhetto him, in Boston, during the last win. ter, before an audience of some three thousand persons; and the breathless stillness which at times pervaded the hall was a tribute to his graceful deliv. ery. To those who have heard him, it will be wholly unnecessary to speak of his acquirements, but as there will be imany strangers here, who have no done so, one word may not be out of place. His rich, clear voice and fin shed intonation have won him many admirers. In dialogue, he gives an impersonation to each character, which is true to life and lays the whole scene before us. Mr. R. takes a high stanf amongst Elocutionists in this country und it is not unlikely that, in a fea years, he will hold the first rank, VIATOR.

TRIAL OF THE COUNT AND COUNTERS De Bockeme -- After seventeen days of trial, this remarkable case was brought to a conclusion at a late hour on Saturday night, (the 11th ultimo.) At half past five in the evening, M. Harmigules, the second counsel for Madame de Boearme, in an address which lasted three hours and a half, replied to the accusations brought against his client, with a view to proclaim her innocence. The President then put eight questions to the jury, tourrespecting M. de Bocarine, four (precisely the same) respecting the Counters. The first of these four questions was relative to the principal fact, the other to the fact of complicity. At nine o'clock the jury retired, and returned at half-past too, finding the Count guilty, and acquitting the Counters .-The President then ordered the accused to be brought into court. The Court was admitted first. His app arance was calm and collected.

Madame de liscarine had her veil down, but her step was firm. On hearing the verdet of guilty, a slight moincutary flush passed over the Count's face, but he evinced no other sign of emotion. On hearing not guilty on his wife, an expression of internal satisfaction animated bls features. He looked affectionately toward his wife, who gave no visible signs of emotion. Bhe left the dock with a firm step, without speak. ing to her husband. The Procurer du Rei having asked the prisoner if he had anything to say, he replied, 'No, except that I am perfectly innocent. He then entered calmly into conversation with his counsel. At cleven o'clock, the Court pronounced sentence of death upon Hippolyte Visart de Bocarme, and decreed that the execution should take place in one of the public squares of Mons. The prisoner left the court under guard, with a firm step.

A letter from Mons says-The Count de llocarme has appealed to the Court of Cassation against his sentence. The Countess, on returning to the prison, had a violent nervolla attack. Her children were brought to her, and their presence tended to restore her. She left the prison about two o'clock in the morning, and went to the house of M. Harmignies, one of her counsel. A report is current that she is about to set oll for Germany. M, de Bocarme sent on Sunday for the Cure of Mone, who immediately went to him. His counsel, for whom he testifies the warmest graditude, has never left him since his con-15th, says:— The calm with which M. de Bocarma heard the sentence of death did not cease for a moment during the night. On returning to his cell, the Count threw himself on his knees, and remained some time in prayer. His first words on receiving the visit of his counsel were, 'At least my wife is acquitted, and she will be able to take care of her children.

The gendarme charged to watch over him said to his counsel, I never saw such courage as his. I am placed here to prevent him from killing himself, but you may without fear give him a pistol or nictocine, as he does not think of suicide. After the trial, M. da Bocarme prayed for some time on returning from the court. Madame de Bocarme uppears perfectly indifferent to the fale of her husband; it is, however, reported that she intends to go to Brussels to demand his parden of the king. In the course of the day De Bocarine demanded to be allowed to see her, and the Procurer du Roi instantly gave permission, but she refused. She attended mass in the prison chapel before leaving. One of her advocates says that he does not know what she means to do, but he supposes that she intends to retire to a convent to pass the rest of her days in has been well and favorably known at prayer, and to attend to the education of her children. Complaints are made of the undiguified and unfeeling manoric. We had the pleasure of listening ner in which the President of the Court of Assize acted in the last sitting. General dissatisfaction is felt of the acquittal of Madame de Bocarme. No sympathy is expressed for her on acount of the want of feeling she displayed throughout the trial. It is thought by many legal gentlemen that the technical objections taken will be held to be good by the Court of Cassation, and that, consequently, there will have to he a new trial. A grand fete is now taking place in the town, and Madame Becarme on leaving the prison encour tered what is called the procession of Sainte Wandru. De Bocarme has expressed the wish that his chalcan shall be razed to the ground, and that the eite on which it stands shall be plough. ed up. His family has consented to this. - Galignani.

RY TELEGRAPH.

Washington, July 8. Mr. Webster's oration on the 4th of July makes its appearance in the papers this morning, as corrected by himself.-It lavery different from the reports aiready published.

A rumor is current that the President intends sending officers to England to arrest Dr. Gardner, who is charged with perpetrating the late friend upon Government. The testimony thus far is said to be very strong against him.

DANIEL WESSTER ON SOUTHERN SEceasion.-In his speech at Canon Springs in Virginia, a week ago on Saturday, Secretary Webster spoke as follows:

The secessionists of the South take a different course of remark. They are learned and eloquent; they are animated and full of spirit; they are highminded and chivalrous; they state their supposed injuries and causes of complaint in elegant phrases and exalted tones of speech. But these complaints are all vague and general. I confess to you, gentlemen, that I know no hydrostatic pressure atrong enough to bring them into any solid form, in which they could be seen or felt. (Laughter and applause.) They think otherwise, doubt less. But, for one, I can discern nothing real or well-grounded in their complaints. If I may be allowed to be a little professional, I would say that all their complaints and alleged grievences are like a very insufficient plea in the law; they are had on general demurrer for want of substance. (Loud laughter.) But I am not disposed to reproach these gendemen, or to speak of them with disrespect. I prefer to leave them to their own reflections. [ make no arguments against resolutions, conventions, secession speeches, or procamations. Let there things go on.-The whole matter, it is to be hoped, will blow over, and men will return to a sounder mode of thinking. But one thing, gentlemen, he assured of-the first step taken in the programme of secession which shall be an actual infringement of the Constitution or the Laws will be promptly met. (Great applause.) And I would not remain an limit in any administration that should not immediately meet any such violation of the Constitution and the Law cffeetually, and at once. (Prolonged applause.) And I can assure you, gentlemen, that all with whom I om at present seconiated in the Covergment enter nawed applause, with cheers.)

Mr. Webster's Oration.—The full and official copy of the oration delivered by Hon, Daniel Webster at the laying of the corner-stone of the new edifice for the national capitol, at Washington, or the seventy-fifth anniversary of our national independence, has not yet come to hand, he having retained it for supervision. It occupied at least one hour and a half in the delivery, though he forbore the reading of certain passages of detail, on account of fatigue of the audience. All who heard it agree in pronouncing it a masterly production, which must prove not only of immediate but of great historical interest in the future. The Washington Union, in speaking of its merits and at Mr. Webster's present powers of oratory, says;

"We heard him in the celebrated dehate with General Hayne, when the subjects of nullification and accession were discussed; and it seemed to us that, although many years have passed since that critical period, there has been no falling off in the force and effect of his style of oratory. There was perhaps, on this occasion, less of the animation and action of extempore delivery, but more of the easy and calm utterance of the thoughts suggested by the nature of the occasion, and the character of the associations brought up by the condition of our country as it now is compared with what it was when Washington laid the corner-stone when it using contain no contentione of the capitol. There seemed to be no intention to dwell upon any of the party feelings of the day, or to impress any other thought on such a subject than what is inseparable from the influence of the users ted arms of Washington of the venerated name of Washington, in reminding all true Americans of the duty of maintaining the Onion and the constitution as the only real security for their favored institutions.

"In this part of the subject Mr. Webster was truly eloquent, and was most enthusiastically cheered. He seemed for a moment to have forgotten his notes and we are inclined to the belief that if he had done so more often his mindo. if he had done so more often, his whole discourse would have been more impressive. Take it as a whole howerpressive. Take it as a whole hower-cr, we are of the opinion that it will be regarded as one of his best efforts, and one which the whole country will thank him for, as presenting thoughts motives, and hopes, that are calculated, at this particular crisis in our country's unpar-allelled carrer, to increase the layer. particular costs at our country's unput-allelled career, to increase the love of union and clevate and enlarge the patrintic and fraternal affections which constitute us one people."

The Washington, Telegratic also

"The oration of Mr. Webste, though "The oration of Mr. Webste, though curtailed in the delivery, occupied near-ly two hours. It was a was, thib rate and pationic review of the past and present condition of our course, and comprised the recutal of much statisti.

The formalism is the past and present condition of our course, and the back Bringe Shan, which the owner comprised the recutal of much statisti.

cal data. There was probably less in it intended or adapted to merely tess in tain the hearer than in any other ora-tion ever delivered on a like occasion; but more to interest, to arouse us lon right appreciation of our true condition and destiny as a nation."

DR, HOOF LAND'S

DR. HOOFLAND'S CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,

Prepared by
C. M. JACKSON,
At the German Medicine Store, 120 Arch Street, Philadolphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not ex-celled—if equiled—by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many ca-ses after skillfal physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of inva-lida. Provising great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exer-cising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the disestice organs, they are withal, sufe, certain and pleasant. rife, certain and pleasunt.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

Char. Rebinson, Esq., Easton, Md., in a letter to Br. Jackson, January 9, 1830, said— "My wife and myself have received more bene-fit from your medicine than my other we have ev-er taken for the Psyspepsia and Liver disease."

"Any with not myself have received more benefit from your modicine than any other we have ever taken for the Dyspepsis and Liver disease."

"The Penth Legion," published at Woodstork Va., January 10, 1850, saids—

"A GREAT MEDICINE."

"We have mid-smit refrained from recommending to the publis my of the various Patent Medicines of the day, unless thoroughly convinced of their value. Among bose we consider worthy of notice is the Grenon Bitters, invented by Dr. Hoofand, and prepared by Dr. Jackson, in Phila delphia. One instance in particular, in which the superior virtues of this medicine has been tested, has follen needs one observation. During the last summer, a sum of Mr. Abraham Crabill, of this country, war very seriously afflicted with Liver Coundaint, and after typing in vain various renedices, he purchased a battle of the Bitters, and after using it, was so much refleved of his distressing modally, that he procured another bottle, and is restored yentice to a health.

Judge M. M. Noah said, in his "Weekly Mescenger," January 6, 1830,

"Dr. Hursfand's German Bitters.—Here is a preparation which the leading pressent in the Union appear to be manimous in recommending, and the reason is obvious. It is made after a precentifition furnished by one of the most celebrated physicians of candern times—the late Dr. Christopher Willelem Hoofkard, professor to the University of Jena, private physician to the king of Prussia, and one of the greatest medical writers Germany has every probleed. He was emphatically the enemy of humbay, and therefore a medicale of which he was the inventor and environmented it in Liver Combiatal, Dyspensia, Hebility, Vertigo, Acidity of the Stomach, Constipation, and allo omplaints arising from a disordered condition of the etomach, the liver and the intestines. Nine Philadelphia pysars express their conviction of its excellence, and several of the editors speak of its effects from their down individual experience. Under those circumstances, we feel warranted, net only in calling the attention of our readers to the present pro-prictor's CDr. C. M.
